Hi Im Arshia

I used to study biology, chemistry and psychology A-Levels at Tudor Grange Sixth Form, and I have now gone on to study a master's in pharmacy at the University of Brighton. I hope to use my degree to go into drug research specifically helping with drug development and testing.

I have had a great time at university. I have joined the PharmSoc which is the society for pharmacy students and the Bangladeshi Society which is aimed at Bangladeshi students at the university and provides a sense of community. It has been fun going to themed nights and making friends there.

I was awarded the Rowlands Trust whilst in Year 13 and my main use for it was helping towards my accommodation costs. To get my second-year house I had to pay for a security deposit and first months rent so by having this extra money I was able to acquire my house for my second year of study.
