

Joe Saunders

2016—2022

During my time at Tudor Grange Academy, I studied graphics, physical education, business studies, core maths and an extended project qualification.

After leaving Sixth Form I joined Bayes business school which is part of City University of London to study Business Management (with placement). Currently, I am about to start my placement with PWC (2023) within their internal firm service line.

In the future I would like to continue my progression through the management levels in either a professional services firm or product based business.
